

Personal coverage: Guaranteed Coverage Amount

The Guaranteed Coverage Amount (GCA) is the amount of insurance proprietors, partners and corporate directors can purchase without having to substantiate earnings prior to benefits being paid. It is an extension of personal coverage that allows business owners to be covered at a set level, without providing earnings information if injured. There are guaranteed coverage amounts for more than 150 industries (see the table below).

Determining the GCA

The GCA is what WCB deems as representative of a worker's annual gross earnings. The amount may vary for different industries. WCB uses earnings information from external wage sources and its own records to determine average earnings in an industry. If WCB has not set a GCA for an industry, the minimum personal coverage amount is the GCA for that industry.

Business owners and directors can still choose any amount of coverage between the minimum and maximum personal coverage amounts set each year (for 2025 the maximum coverage is $106,400 and the minimum coverage is $34,100). If you choose to insure yourself for more than the minimum or the GCA, you must be able to substantiate earnings for your compensation rate.

Cost of coverage

Premiums are determined by the GCA multiplied by your account's rate per hundred dollars of assessable earnings for your industry.

Changing your personal coverage amount

You can change your coverage amount at any time. The change in coverage is effective the date we receive your request, and you will be invoiced for the difference in premium.
