Qualifications

Dr. Timothy Riegel is a fellowship-trained plastic and reconstructive surgeon with over 23 years of clinical experience specializing in trauma, hand, microsurgery, burn care, and complex reconstructive procedures. A Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons of Canada, Dr. Riegel earned his Doctor of Medicine from the University of Calgary and completed residency training in Plastic Surgery at the University of Alberta.

He pursued advanced fellowship training in Microsurgery and Cancer Reconstruction at the University of Toronto and a Clinical Burn Fellowship at the University of Cincinnati. Dr. Riegel served for 17 years as a Plastic and Burn Surgeon at the University of Alberta Hospital's Level 1 Trauma Centre and as Associate Director of the American Burn Association verified Firefighters Burn Treatment Unit.

Currently practicing with Alberta Surgical Group, Dr. Riegel's clinical focus includes trauma and reconstructive plastic surgery, burn care and rehabilitation, hand surgery, microsurgical reconstruction, and laser treatments for complex scars. He has a longstanding history of involvement in surgical education and clinical research.

Dr. Riegel brings comprehensive expertise in the management of traumatic and reconstructive conditions, supporting independent medical evaluations with in-depth knowledge of injury patterns, surgical outcomes, and long-term recovery considerations.
